Specializations

The International Undergraduate Program (KKI) at FHUI offers six areas of specialization:

1. Economic Law
2. Public International Law
3. Private International Law
4. Islamic Law
5. Environmental Law; and
6. Constitutional Law

International Exposure

International Undergraduate Program student is obliged to participate in various international exposure programs, namely student exchange, study abroad and/or summer/winter course in the minimum of 1 (one) semester overseas. To participate in such program, student can be nominated to the universities or faculties partner all over the world. FHUI has international cooperation agreements with Faculty of Law all over the world which offers a wide range of courses for students. FHUI has been admitting international students as exchange students as well – National University of Singapore, Sciences Po Paris, Australian National University, University of Groningen, St Petersburg University and many more.

Education Fees During International Exposure

When conducting the student exchange schemes, KKI student is required to pay education operational fees at UI as well as the travel and living expenses abroad. There would also be limited quota relating to students who are able to join this scheme which depends on the Faculty's MoU with the partner university. Whilst in conducting the study abroad scheme, KKI student would only be required to pay for the education operational fees at UI with the total amount IDR2.000.000,- (two million Indonesian Rupiah). KKI students also have to cover the tuition fees at the designated university, travel fees as well as living expenses while studying abroad.
